HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY AND STUDNTS IN MAMMOTH CELEBRATION

MRS. E. CHITTENDEN, PIONEER OF NILES, MOURNED BY FRIENDS

Proprietress of Belvoir Hotel Dies at Kin's Residence

Mrs. E. L. Chittenden, 83, a pioneer of the Niles region, and proprietress of the Belvoir Hotel for many years, died Thursday, Oct. 23, at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Roy Ingram, in Gridley. Mrs. Chittenden has for the past three months been living in Gridley, where she went in an attempt to build up her health which failed noticably some months ago.

Born in Jericho, Wisconsin, in 1947, Mrs. Chittenden left motherless at the age of 6 weeks spent her childhood on Bear River ranch of her father, Jeremiah Parsons, a well known rancher of that section. As a girl of nineteen she came around the Horn to Marysville in 1866. In Marysville she attended the famous Boston Seminary for girls, and remained there until the death of her father, a year later. In 1868 she married E. L. Chittenden, a prominent Yuba county rancher.

Upon their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Chittenden left Marysville on the first train to run out of that city. A daughter was born in 1870. During the early part of their married life they lived in Mendocino county and other neighboring parts of the state. Mr. Chittenden was engaged in ranching during this time. They returned to Marysville and made their home there for a short time, just before moving to Niles.

Their home in Mendicino county was a crude log cabin on their arrival, its only furniture being two bunks and a cook stove. Bell Springs, as the place was called, was four miles off the stage road and on the Eel River. Such luxuries as they could carry they packed in on mule back. During the following years of selfdenial and hard work they gradually added many comforts to their pioneering life. In the year 1884 Mr. and Mrs. Chittenden sold their ranch and came to the present site of the Belvoir Hotel. Their ranch prospered and finally became so pleasant and attractive that they converted it into a hotel. The Belvoir Hotel, as they named it, also prospered and became a well known institution of Niles.

Since the death of her husband in 1906, Mrs. Chittenden has traveled extensively, mostly alone. She spent much time in visiting friends made during the years in which she and her husband conducted the Belvoir Hotel. Universally called "Nana," she has always taken an active part in the social and civic interests of her community, giving freely of her time and money for its welfare. Despite her age, Mrs. Chittenden was active and enjoyed excellent health up until a few months ago. Her

SHERIFF DRIVER FEELS CONFIDENT OF RE-ELECTION

Says He Puts Duty First At Visit To Register

Sheriff M. B. Driver dropped in to the Township Register office Monday afternoon to chat with the publisher and office force about the coming election. Sheriff Driver stated that he felt confident of success when the votes are cast on November 4. He basis his confidence, he said, on his past record in the office.

In the course of the talk it was suggested to Sheriff Driver that a little more of his time and effort spent in meeting the voters of Alameda county would be a great help to his cause. To this he replied:

Sheriff Driver

"I realize, that such a course might win doubtful votes. I have, however, already taken an oath to perform to the best of my ability the duties of the sheriff's office. I feel that a man who has taken an oath such as this should constantly keep the responsibilities thereby incurred foremost in his mind and should put the discharge of those responibilities before all matters of personal aggrandizement.

"In view of this opinion, and my efforts to live up to it, I find it very hard to get around to meet many of the Alameda county voters. My work comes first, and then if I can find time I try and spend a little of it in the manner sugested."

He went on to say that he thought the voters of his county would realize that his past record bears him out in his view and proves that he is sincere in the matter.

IRVINGTON SUICIDE IS DISCOVERED HANGING IN FREIGHT WAREHOUSE

Ole Mathusen, 61, Found In Southern Pacific Warehouse, Dead

The body of Ole Mathusen was found by two hoboes on Friday morning, Oct. 24, hanging in the Southern Pacific Warehouse at Irvington. The dead man had apparantly committed suicide late Thursday night, or early Friday morning.

According to the tramps, they took shelter in the warehouse on Thursday evening. They spent the night there without being disturbed. On waking up Friday morning they found the body hanging from a rafter. They roused the station agent who phoned F. F. Botelho, Deputy Coroner, in Centerville. On Botelho's arrival in Irvington he supervised cutting the body down and removed it to the Botelho Mortuary in Centerville.

The dead man was soon identified as Ole Mathuson, and his age established as about 61. Further investigation revealed no trace of relatives. It was discovered, however, that the dead man had worked for some time at the Alms Home in Milpitas. He was born at Oslo, Norway.

DAIRYMAN FAILS TO SNEAK STOCK, EQUIPMENT AWAY

Night Removal of Ranch Machinery Halted By Armed Neighbor

Joseph V. Serpa, local dairyman, who was arrested Oct. 23 on a complaint sworn to by J. C. Shinn and John Futardo, after he was alleged to have made an unsuccessful attempt to remove stock and property from a dairy ranch which he had purchased from them and on which he had not been able to keep up the payments failed to appear for arraignment Tuesday in the Niles Justice Court, due to a misunderstanding among the parties involved. Judge Silva postponed the proceedings till Friday morning at ten.

On the night of October 21 a neighbor was awakened by a noise and claimed that Serpa and two other men were attempting to skid the refrigerating equipment of the ranch across a field to a point where a truck was parked. The neighbor obtained a gun, stopped the removal of the machinery, and notified Shinn and Futardo. A silage cutter is alleged to have been found on a ranch near Milipitas, but the rancher contended that he had borrowed the machine and had not purchased it from Serpa, as was suspected.

Later in the night, it is alleged, Serpa drove the cows across a dry creek bed, passing within a few yards of the Shinn home, and headed south with the herd. The cows were located in a small corral betwen Centerville and Irvington, and were returned to the ranch yesterday.

Serpa succeeded in obtaining bail.

FIREMEN'S BALL PROVES ENJOYABLE EVENT

The successful Firemen's Ball, given at the Garden of Allah, Saturday night, drew a crowd of four hundred and fifty people according to an estimate. The large gathering was especially helpful in making the affair an unusually pleasant and successful one.

Dancing started at 9 o'clock to the music of Rendon's Orchestra. As the dancers entered the hall they deposited stubs for door prizes, which were donated by the Firemen's Ball Committee. At midnight the dancing stopped, and during a short lull about eight prizes were distributed to lucky guests who bore them away proud and happy.

After the drawing the dancing continued, and when the familiar strains of "Home, Sweet, Home" marked the end of the ball at 1 o'clock, everyone seemed loath to leave.

DEFECTIVE LIGHTS RESPONSIBLE FOR MANY ACCIDENTS

Grave Danger of Illegal and Faulty Lights Are Stressed Here

Defective headlights are responsible for a large number of accidents which occur on the streets and highways of California. This statement was made today by Mrs. Jas. R. Whipple, member of the Safety Conference of the California State Chamber of Commerce, in connection with its monthly educational campaign, which, during October, stresses the danger from illegal and faulty headlights.

Mrs. Whipple points out two evils which seem to predominate at night. One is driving with glaring headlights and the other is driving with only one headlight. "Driving with one headlight is perhaps the more dangerous practice since it is impossible to tell whether a motorcycle or an automobile is appoaching. This is especially true when it is the left hand light which is missing. In the interest of street and highway safety for California, motorists are urged to see that their headlight equipment complies with the law."

Alvarado Nine Wins Ball Game at Newark

The Alvarado Grammar School Baseball team defeated the Newark team last week. The teams were evenly matched, and both played a good game of baseball. Alvarado was victorious by two runs. BAZZAR AT CHURCH

The three day bazzar which was held for the benefit of the St. Annes Church was a complete success. A much larger crowd attended than was expected and the committees were overjoyed with the financial results.

On Thursday night members of the Washington Union High School Band led by McLellen played a few numbers. Friday night Clarence Secada, of Centerville, left for home with seven beautiful prizes and on Saturday night Manuel Rose was the lucky winner of the $20 which was the most sought after prize of the entire bazzar.

LESLIES LOSE GAME

The outcome of the baseball game, Sunday does not appear so good for the Leslie team. The Salts lost with a score of nine to two to the Nehi Beverages, one of the fastest clubs in the league.

Rose and Blaney started for the Salts, but were replaced by the old reliables, Jacinto and Degermark| in the fourth inning.

The batting average for the team, Sunday, was very low. Robinson, shortstop, was the outstanding hitter for the Salts, getting 2 for 3. Escobar and Swanstrom both hit a home run.

BLACK EYE GIVEN IN PAYMENT FOR FREE STEAK DINNER

Two gentlemen of leisure enjoyed luncheon one day last week at the expense of Butler's Cafe in Newark. The two young men entered the vacant cafe just before noon, and after each had painstakingly stowed away a sirloin steak and trimmings they prepared to depart without giving any indications of discharging their newly incurred debt to the management. Mrs. Butler accousted the pair with a demand for the price of their meal.

"Why," said one, "we've eaten in several restaurants lately and departed without paying. I guess we can do it again."

Mrs. Butler called Mr. Butler. He came running.

On his approacn the silent one of two gentlemen fled; but the other, not so quick, was knocked down by Mr. Butler and held down. The downed man vowed he would pay the bill if allowed to rise. He rose, blacked Mr. Butler's eye with one well placed blow, and fled to join his companion.

NEW ODD FELLOWS' BUILDING NEARS COMPLETION

The new $25,000 Odd Fellows' Building on the corner of First and "J" Streets will be finished about December 1, according to P. A. Ellis, secretary of the order. The plasterers have finished this week, having spent the first part of the week in putting the finishing touches on the second and third floors. The workmen are now busy in installing the windows, sashes, and frames.

The two stores on the ground floor are complete save for the fronts. The corner store has been leased, and the contact signed. The lease of the other store has not been completed although the final papers are expected to be signed soon. Information as to whom the stores are to be occupied by is not availible, though it is rumored that one is to be taken over by a chain store.

On the second floor is the main lodge room and several smaller rooms to be used for coat and dressing rooms, vestibule, and similiar purposes. In the main lodge room the ceiling is cross-beamed with great beams of a pleasing gray tint. The walls from the ceiling down to chest height are mottle-plastered in that shade of tan which is so popular now. The ceiling panels and the walls below the plaster have not been finished. The ceiling panels will probably be plastered in a harmonizing tint, and the rest of the walls finished with impressive wooden paneling.

The third floor has a banquet hall, kitchen, and pantry. These rooms as well as the small rooms on the main floor are not near enough completed to tell what they will look like when finished.

According to the secretary of the lodge, fitting dedication services will be held as soon after the completion of the building as possible. Plans for the dedication are not definite because the date of the building's completion is not absolutely settled yet.

The building, designed by George E. Ellinger, is being built by Emil Person, at a cost somewhere between $25,000 and $30,000.

Folders and parchments as well as cards—new, correct and in good taste. See Township Register.—S25tfc.

First Commencement In New Gym Being Planned

The senior class of the Washington Union High School is already preparing for graduation. Of particular interest in friends and relatives of the graduating students is the announcement in the Hatchet, the school paper, that no one need be turned away from the graduating exercises this year due to lack of room. This year's class will have the honor of being the first to graduate from the spacious new gymnasium, which has just been completed. The main floor will be reserved for friends and parents of the graduates, and the balcony will be open to the public.

At a meeting held October 20, the class discussed such subjects pertinant to graduation as the commencement song, class dues,, the Senior Annual, and the senior ball, which will be the first senior ball to be held in the new gymnasium.

FREE HUNTINGTON LIBRARY FROM TAXATION

HUNTINGTON LIBRARY AND ART GALLERY. "THE BLUE BOY." BY GAINSBOROUGH

THE late Henry E. Huntington gave in trust for the people, the great Huntington Library and Art Gallery, and created a trust fund for its support as "a free Public Library, Art Gallery, Museum and Park for the advancement of learning, and to promote the public welfare."

It is a library of libraries—a collection of collections. It comprises 175,000 separate titles of printed books and about 800,000 manuscripts. It contains the vellum Gutenburg Bible, a remarkable Shakespeare collection and more than 5300 titles of books printed on movable type before the year 1501.

It contains, among other treasures, the Gainsborough "Blue Boy"; Reynolds' "Tragic Muse"; and Romney's "Lady Hamilton."

A. S. W. Rosenbach, probably the greatest living authority, says—

". . . Mr. Henry E. Huntington was the greatest collector of books the world has ever known. The library will be the Mecca of students for all time."

The California Legislature placed on the ballot for the coming elections (Proposition No. 13) a Constitutional Amendment to free this property from taxation, just as Stanford University was freed some years ago, but added the safeguard that the legislature may revoke the exemption at any time. This amendment is specifically endorsed by the California Taxpayers Association and merits the support of the voters. Vote Yes.

The OBJECT of the Electric Railway Tax Equalization Amendment (Number Four on the ballot) is to reclassify for taxation purposes the electric railways of California as distinct from the steam railroads and to place the taxes of the electric railways on an equality with taxes paid on common property and by the motor bus and stage companies. It is:

BASED on the California Tax Commission's findings that the electric railways "bear a disproportionately large tax burden."

ILLNE FATAL TO CENTERVILLE FARMER; TUESDAY

Eugene Steveson's Death Is Blow to Kin and Friends

Eugene Stevenson, of Centerville, died at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the St. Mary's Hospital, Oakland, after being ill for the past two months. His funeral and cremation will take place Friday afternoon, Oct. 31.

The Alameda Elks' Club is in charge of the funeral services to be held Friday afternoon at 2 in the Stevenson home, Centerville. Immediately after the impressive Elks' service Rev. W. J. Attwood, of St. James Episcopal church in Centerville, will give a brief sermon. The body will then be conducted to Oakland for cremation. Rev. Attwood will conduct another short service there in the Chapel of the Chimes.

Death was due to hardening of the liver after a two months' illness. The deceased had been in the hospital for two weeks, and in spite of his confinement there, his family and friends have never felt uneasy about his condition during the entire illness because of his rugged constitution. The death of this respected and admired man in the prime of middle age was, therefore, quite unexpected.

Eugene Stevenson owned a fine prosperous ranch near Centerville. A great deal of his property was left him by his father who was one of the pioneers of the section. Stevenson was born and raised in the neighborhood, and has come to be a well liked citizen.

He leaves a wife and three children. His sons are young men; Maxwell, the eldest is a lawyer in San Francisco, and Harry Stevenson, the other, is employed by the Caterpillar Tractor Company, of San Leandro. His daughter, Roberta, is attending grammar school in Centerville.

A sister, Mrs. Carrie Emerson, also lives in Centerville, and a brother, John Stevenson, lives in Peteluma.

Mrs. Ames was called to San Francisco due to the sudden death of her brother, William H. Young. His interment took place on Tuesday.

Only sixten hands were played, the winning ones being held by Mrs. O. Hirch, Mrs. Humphrey, Mrs. B. Tyson, Mrs. Pimentell, Mrs. Haar, Mrs. Slayten, Mrs. Katzer, Mrs. Wilder, Mrs. Oakes, Miss B. Dusterberry, Mrs. F. Adams, Mrs. W. Pond, and Mrs. Roderick.

The Ladies Aid had a delightful time on Wednesday when they surprised Mrs. N. Nehrs, of San Jose. All brought a basket lunch and enjoyed it to the uttermost.

Shrubs and Flowers To Beautify Gym Grounds

The present dull and unattractive appearance of the grounds immediately surrounding the new gymnasium of the Washington Union High school will soon be transformed into a scene of beauty by the planting of shrubs and flower gardens. H. C. Frietas, the gardener, is at work transplanting shrubs to surround the building. He plans to constuct a flower garden of six flower beds with a smooth lawn between the beds on the bare ground near the gym. Blue pompons, zinnias, gladiolas, pansies, dahlias, delphiniums, lobelias, blue asters and petunias are the flowers which will soon be planted and which were prize winners at the San Leandro Flower Show. The planting will take place about the first of the month and all of the beds will be completed by spring.

Band Practices Stunts For Big Football Game

The student band of the Washington Uunion High school has been busy practicing marching and stunts for the Hayward football game which will be held in Centerville on November 11. At that game the band will display several stunts and formations similar to those which entertain spectators betwen halves at the college games. The band leader is rapidly becoming proficient in twirling his baton in the most dazzling manner.

STUDENTS ENJOY VARIED PROGRAMS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Several entertaining and instructive programs were enjoyed by students of the Washington Union High school this last week. The students of instrumental music went last Tuesday to Alvarado, where they listened to a concert played by A. C. Olker and his orchestra from the Roosevelt High school, Oakland. The concert was especially enjoyable to the students because the numbers chosen were of the light classical type. The program follows:

March, "Anniversary," by Laurendeau.

Czavdas from "Der Geist dis Wojeredew," by Grossman.

From India Suite Overture, by Popy.

a—The Bayadenes.
b—By the Ganges.
c—The Almas.

Selections from "The Desert Song," by Rornber.

Intermezzo Scene, "In a Persian Market," by Kitlbesy.

Program were also given on Tuesday by several of the advisory classes. In room 110, violin solos by George Kikuoawa, a poem by Chiyoko Kawaguchi, and vocal solos by Barbara Laudenslager and Mabel Evulich were enjoyed by the class. In Mrs. Morris' advisory class, a report on the Hawaiian Islands by Albert Vasconcelles was the main event. In another class a lively argument was held on the subject, "Who are the most reckless drivers, men or women?" The "men" won.

THE DOUBLE CROSS

by A. E. THOMAS

W.N.U. SERVICE

Copyright By Dodd, Mead and Company, Inc.

Two persons enter into a conspiracy against a third one. One of the conspirators is not true to the compact. Secretly he informs the third party or takes other action that defeats the conspiracy and throws the burden on his trusting partner Such is the origin of the term, double cross It has had various modifications and applications until it has come to mean almost any underhanded gaining of confidence and subsequent betrayal. Beginning as a slang term, it was too expressive to remain so, and is now a recognized figure of speech. A singularly wicked form of the double cross is the basis for this story A man proves recreant to the most sincere form of friendship, recreant to the partner who held him in the closest regard, aided him over rough places, paid his debts and persistently excused or overlooked his faults The most dastardly action was when the false friend came between the true one and the woman he loved

Written by a successful playwright, the story is essentially dramatic, crisp in dialogue and realistic in action The metropolitan setting is used with fine effect to produce atmosphere and characterization. The absorbing elements of the plot are rendered more fascinating by a vein of subtlety and mystery leading to an unexpected climax near the end. The story might appropriately be termed the triple cross, for the double crosser himself becomes the victim of one whom he trustingly took into his enterprise.

CHAPTER I.—Jim Stanley, wealthy young New York business man, unable to concentrate in his dictation to his desk audiphone, has the machine taken to his home, intending to finish his work there. Rollin Waterman his business partner and closest friend, comes in Both men are avowedly in love with Doris Colby Stanley proposes they toss a coin to determine Which of them shall, that evening, first ask her to marry him Waterman wins

CHAPTER II.—Nina Morgan Waterman's secretary, also his mistress, has overheard his conversation with Stanley and resents Waterman's plans to desert her Waterman tells her he is practically penniless and must make a rich marriage. He urges Nina to go to Doris and tell her she (Nina) has been wronged—but by Stanley The girl consents, on Waterman's promise to take care of her

CHAPTER III.—Doris admits to her father her interest in both Stanley and Waterman, and is sure they are both in love with her, but she is unable to make up her mind which to marry

CHAPTER IV.—Nina goes to Doris with her story, securing a promise that Doris will not reveal the source of her information. She convinces Doris of Stanley's duplicity and leaves her broken hearted, and realizing that it is Stanley she really has loved

CHAPTER V.—Waterman that evening asks Doris to marry him, and she, believing Stanley unworthy, accepts him. According to the arrangement, Stanley appears, to learn his rival has won. He accepts the situation, and as a wedding present gives his share of the business to Waterman. Next day he arranges with his secretary, Frank Wilson, to take charge of his other business interests. He is going to India.

CHAPTER VI.—Doris, unable to put Stanley completely out of her mind, tells Waterman part of Nina's story. He promises to "try" to find the girl, so that full corroboration can be made. Waterman is deeply in debt to a gambler, Bromfield, and the latter presses for payment. Waterman quiets him by the news of his engagement to the wealthy Doris Colby

CHAPTER VII.—Waterman makes a financial arrangement with Nina which will insure her silence.

CHAPTER VIII.—Frank Wilson, who has long been aware of Waterman's crooked business methods and his debts, sees Nina at the wedding, and vague suspicions are aroused in him. He leaves Waterman's employ. The latter begins to importune Doris for money, ostensibly for the "business" but actually for gambling purposes.

Apparently There Was a Stormy Sea Tonight, but Doris Checked Him With a Word.

first time in her life she did not enjoy it. She could not fix her mind upon it. She was thinking, as she had often thought of late, of Jim Stanley. Suddenly it occurred to her that she absolutely, positively, and wholly disbelieved every single word of the story that Nina Morgan had told her. She sat up a little straighter in her chair, as the realization swept over her. It was as if she had risen suddenly, instantaneously recovered from a long and serious illness. It was amazing. There was no sense in it—yet there it was. There was no explaining it—yet disbelieve it she did, utterly.

She spent the rest of the evening as in a daze. Puccini's tragic melodies surged over her head in vain. Before the final curtain she pleaded a headache, arose, and departed. She left Waterman with her guests, waving aside his insistence upon accompanying her home. She wanted to be alone.

Yet she had not finished undressing when he arrived. Waterman appeared to be in an affectionate mood. Affection with him was a sporadic thing. It came in waves. Apparently there was a stormy sea tonight, but Doris checked him with a word.

"I'm tired," she said, "and my head aches. I want to sleep."

Doris unclasped the diamond necklace and laid it upon her dressing table.

She fell asleep thinking of Nina Morgan. That girl—why had that girl told her that terrible lie? A lie it surely was—she knew it. How? Never mind—it was a lie—it must have been She knew it Thus she pursued the circle of her thought, arriving always at the same conclusion until peace came to her mind, and her bosom began to rise and fall almost imperceptibly, steadily, gently, with the ease and grace of youth and health.

Through the drawn curtains of the chamber came the faintest gleam from a distant street lamp One of its vagrant rays fell dimly upon the jewels that lay upon the dressing table. There they slept in the not quite total darkness, faintly gleaming, like a pool of molten silver at the bottom of a well, under the starlight.

* * * * * * *

It may be that Mr. Colby would have taken no further interest in the relations between his son-in-law and the Goddess of Chance had it not been for the fact that, on a certain afternoon with General Leavitt at the Lawyers' club Waterman had taken one drink too many. He had been reviewing his business situation. To ameliorate the unpleasantness of the conclusions to which this occupation had driven him, he had resorted to liquid consolation. Certain of these papers, he presently reflected, would be better off in his safety deposit box than in his desk at home. He thrust them into his pocket, filled his glass again, emptied it, and started to go out.

As he reached the hall door he stopped. Those papers—what had he done with them? His slightly clouded memory could not instantly inform him. He thrust his hand into his pocket, drew out the papers, identified them, and thrust them again into his pocket—all but one. That one fluttered lightly over the edge of the jardiniere and tucked itself neatly between that ornament and the baseboard. There it lay, an hour later, when Mr. Colby, having enjoyed a cup of tea and a half hour's chat with his daughter, departed from the apartment. As he opened the door his eye caught a flash of white behind the jardiniere. Stooping, he picked up the scrap of paper, glanced at it casually--then read it with care. Thoughtfully he put it in his pocket and departed.

This was why, about noon the following day, Mr. Bromfield received this communication:

"Mr. Alexander Colby presents his compliments to Mr. William Bromfield, and requests the pleasure of his company this afternoon at Number One Hundred Broadway, at half past three o'clock. R. S. V. P."

Mr. Bromfield read this communication through twice, then he leaned back in his swivel chair, thrust his thumbs into the armholes of his waistcoat, put his feet upon his desk, and meditated. Anyone who knew him, seeing him just then, would have realized that he was considering a knotty problem.

At a few minutes before the appointed hour Mr. Bromfield's beautiful French coupe rolled up to the sidewalk in front of Number One Hundred Broadway. He was pleasantly welcomed by the lawyer, who was evidently no stranger to him.

"Sit down, Mr. Bromfield. I must apologize for asking you to come so far downtown, but I thought perhaps our meeting would be more

Southern Pacific's $12,000,000 Martinez-Benicia Bridge Will Be Publically Dedicated November 1

Special Program Has Been Arranged for Important Occasion

Dedication of Southern Pacific's $12,000,000 Martinez - Benicia bridge project on Saturday, November 1, an event of outstanding interest in the transportation world, will be the occasion for popular excursion fares from this city to Martinez with stopover privileges in San Francisco for the week-end.

This announcement was made here this week by Harvey Braun, who declared that plans for the bridge opening insure one of the greatest spectacles ever arranged in connection with an affair of its kind.

With all the steel now in place the gigantic structure across Suisun Bay is rapidly nearing completion, according to the railroad, and its dedication will be celebrated with a program of varied and wide-spread interest.

A pageant of transportation progress will be enacted with the tiny locomotive, "C. P. Huntington," patriarch of Southern Pacific's motive power, leading a modern rail giant across the bridge. In addition, the daytime attractions are to be featured by water sports, including speedboat races, and a thrilling air circus, Sheffield announced. Carnival stunts and a fireworks display in Martinez will close the festivities.

United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge has accepted an invitation to be the principal speaker at the celebration. The cememonies will not only dedicate the mammoth bridge, but will also mark the passing of the historic train ferries across Carquinez Straits between Port Costa and Benicia.

Long known as the largest ferryboats in the world, the "Solano," and "Contra Costa," will bow to progress and retire from service as the new Martinez-Benicia bridge takes up the work of transporting all of Southern Pacific's Overland and Shasta Route trains over the upper reaches of San Francisco Bay.

Dancing Classes Held In Country Club Hall

There are only a few vacancies in the dancing classes being held at the Country Club Building under the auspices of the Williamson School. Approximately thirty boys and girls from five years to high school age have enrolled. Mrs. Genevieve Williamson, of the Vaudine Putman Sanders studio of San Jose, is instructor.

Those desiring to enroll are asked to communicate with the Williamson school. They are limited to eight pupils in each class in order that each child may receive individual attention.

MORE ON High School Faculty

During the remainder of the evening the new gymnasium, the shop and the main buildings of the high school are to be thrown open to inspection while the band plays a number of light and varied compositions.

The new gymnasium, which is now ready for immediate service, means much to the students of the heretofore gym-less high school. During rainy weather in the past the classes have been forced to give up their althletic activities much to the sorrow of the cooped-up students, who have had to study when they should have been relaxing in physical exercise. In the new gym the physical education classes will go on uninterrupted throughout the year.

The sports of the school will also benefit, because the gymnasium provides facilities for after-dark and rainy weather practices. If the basketball games are held, admission can be collected, adding more money to the basketball funds.

In holding class parties and other social affairs in the gym, the students will now save the money which has, in the past, been necessary in order to rent a hall suitable for dancing and parties. There will also be occasion for that satisfying feeling of pride and ownership on the part of the students in being able to hold their affairs "at home."

The gymnasium was designed by Birge Clark, of Palo Alto, and he was assisted by his brother, David Clark. Both men are graduates of Stanford with many years of architectual work behind them and many fine buildings in and around Palo Alto to their credit. Among the buildings they have designed are such outstanding ones as Kathleen Norris' home, the Fire and Police Building, the Medical and Dental Building, the Palo Alto High School Gymnasium, and a number of Palto Alto elementary schools.

The new gymnasium is provided with facilities for training the normal pupils as well as those needing corrective work and is made to stand for ages.

"It is," said E. B. Hodges, "an eight-inch reinforced concrete building with a one-half-inch bar of iron in every nine-by-twelve inches of the wall, and reinforced concrete columns are placed every twenty feet on the exterior. The roof has a twenty-year guarantee.

"No debts or bonds are outstanding on this building," stated the principal in a recent interview. "The complete cost was paid last July, and the building is going to stand for centuries and will improve as time goes by."

The main door of the gymnasium opens into the largest room of the entire building, the auditorium, whose dimensions are sixty by one hundred feet. The room is provided with a basketball and volleyball court. Two stairways at either side of the main doors lead to the balcony where activities on the main floor can be observed.

Twenty-four lights hung from the ceiling give ample illumination for night games and programs. The balcony is equally well lighted by twelve globes.

Two long halls run down on either side of the auditorium beneath the balcony, and from them many rooms lead off. The north hall will be occupied by the boys and is supplied with a correction room at the extreme left of the main entrance. Here proper exercises will be administered to those needing corrective work in order to overcome their weakness. A private director's room adjoins this, followed by locker, towel, and shower rooms, and a lavatory. The shower rooms are finished in white tile and are divided into two sections with six showers in each.

The girls' side is equally divided, composed of a similar room for corrective work; a director's private room; and a nurse, towel, locker, shower, rest, and dressing rooms.

Directly in back of the auditorium stands the second largest room. This is forty by sixty feet. The floor is divided into a basketball, volleyball, and two handball courts.

Several rooms are located in back of the apparatus room, namely a kitchen, piano, boiler, and janitor's room.

One of the correction rooms will be used as a music room temporarily, and another room has not been finished. This is situated on the north side next to the shower rooms, and will probably be used as a store room.

The funeral service was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Chapel of the Chimes of the California Memorial Columbarium, Berkeley. Rev. F. Reverend Jones was inspired to talk on such a theme by his life-long friendship for Mrs. Chittenden, and also by her life of loving service to others. Mrs. Chittenden was loved by all who knew her, and no one was ever known to speak deterimentally of her. The Psalms were favorites with her, and of them she especially liked the Twenty-third. Her undoubted study of thm probably formed the basis of her lovable character.
